SHERRIES, BRANDY & PORT

Once thought of as the sweet stuff dusted off only at Christmas, sherry is back with a bang. As for its renewed popularity, today, the rise of sherry goes hand in hand with the rise of all things Spanish. Fueled by the tapas concept, sherry is the ideal tippie to accompany this pick-and-mix way of dining

Fino

Clear and perfectly dry, with an earthy aroma of almonds, fino is served chilled as an aperitif wine, often accompanied by nuts or tapas such as jamón serrano

Manzanilla

This is the fino sherry made in Sanlúcar de Barrameda. This sherry is even drier and paler than other finos, often described as having a slightly sea-salty edge and in Spain outsells other dry sherries

Amontillados

This sherry is often described as being mid-way between a fino and an oloroso, therefore darker in colour

Oloroso

Oloroso is made from palamino grapes. Ranging from rich amber to deep mahogany in colour with complex aromas of noble wood and nutty tones, creating an elegant dry finish

Pedro Ximenez

Often shortened to PX, Pedro Ximenez is wonderfully syrupy and incredibly sweet. The PX grapes are often dried under the sun to concentrate the flavours and sweetness giving intense notes of raisins and molasses. Is wonderful with chocolate or coffee and if you're feeling particularly extravagant can be drenched over ice cream.

Remember the following as a rough guide regarding food pairings with sherry...

If it swims, drink Fino
If it flies, drink Amontillado
If it walks, drink Oloroso

FINO

Barbadillo Fino

A great aperitif fino sherry from Barbadillo. A unique ageing process gives this sherry its characteristic straw colour, almond aroma and a crisp dry flavour

Unique to the coastal town of Sanlúcar de Barrameda in Southern Spain. Solear is bright, fresh, delicate and extraordinarily dry with a long, nutty, salty finish

AMONTILLADO

Amontillado NPU, Sanchez Romate

Regarded as one of the region's best producers, benefiting from western Andalusia's sunshine and cool sea breeze. Dark amber in colour, the nose is harmonious and mature with mouthwatering aromas of pecan, cinder toffee, fudge, dried apricot and cedar

50ml 5.00 / 70ml 6.00

Oloroso Don Jose, Sanchez Romate

One of the true great quality sherry's available. Rich, nutty flavours with a flash of walnut. Soft and delicate on the finish, a great example of a dry, but concentrated Oloroso

PEDRO XIMÉNEZ

The Pedro Ximénez grape is dried under the Andalusian sun after picking and then aged in cask for many years in the traditional Solera system within the ancient cathedral cellars of Barbadillo. This is a dark and lusciously sweet wine with a rich prune and raisin flavour
